

REPORT

Of Missionary Campaign In
This CityAt The First Baptist Church
This Week

(By D. B. Grubb, Sec.)

The United Missionary Campaign which was held at the Baptist church in Mt. Vernon, Ohio on the 12th and 13th marked perhaps the high tide of religious endeavor and enthusiasm in Knox county, and especially in our local city churches.

Never before have the men of the county, and on the closing day of the conference, the ladies as well, been permitted to hear the subject especially, and also the matter of general church efficiency so ably and enthusiastically represented, as was the case in this conference.

On Monday evening, Dr. Houston of Columbus, Ohio, one of the members of the Presbyterian board, Dr. F. M. Hains of Cincinnati, Ohio, of the Disciple Board of Foreign Missions, and Dr. A. S. Wiley of India, a missionary under the Presbyterian board were present, and spoke in a soul stirring manner upon the question of the needs of the church today with relation to their duty in evangelization, and also as to our methods of efficiency at home.

On Tuesday the conference during the day were in charge of Dr. Wiley, and were of such character that those who heard them frequently remarked that they would not have missed them at the cost of almost any personal sacrifice. This was especially true of Dr. Wiley's work throughout the conference.

The evening session was closed by Dr. Furry of Ashland, president of the Progressive Brethren College and Dr. Wiley.

Everyone attending this meeting in particular, left with the determination that they would never again permit themselves and the local church organizations to look in differently upon the question of missions and church efficiency general.

The following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, we believe in the necessity of systematic organizations, to enable our local churches to attain to their greatest efficiency and measure of usefulness; and,

Whereas, we believe that the entire secret of the usefulness and spiritual life of our churches can best be attained by interesting our church organizations and individual members in the matter of world evangelization.

Therefore, Be it resolved that we most heartily endorse the program of the entire Missionary Campaign for a nation wide canvass during the month of March 1914; and be it resolved that we urge the formation of a strong county executive committee, who should co-operate with and assist every church in our county to effectively prepare for and conduct an every member canvass and to introduce a systematic weekly method of contribution for both current expenses and mission.

DAM BREAKS

City In Danger And People Are Fleeing

Elkins, W. Va., Jan. 15.—Telephone messages received here today say that the 500 inhabitants of Dobbin, W. Va., on the branch of the Potomac river are fleeing for their lives before a wall of water which is rushing down on that town and others in the Potomac valley, as the result of the breaking of the dam of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper company, just above Dobbin. Warnings have been sent to all inhabitants of the valley to flee to the hills, it is said.

It is said authorities hope to check the waters' rush by safety sluice boxes, installed below the dam a few months ago, to be used in such emergency cases as the present one.

SOUTH CAROLINA BAR MEETING

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 15.—An attractive programme faced the members of the South Carolina Bar association when they assembled here today for their annual meeting. The leading feature provided in the programme was the annual address, to be delivered by Roscoe Pound, Story professor of law in the Harvard University law school. The meeting will conclude with a banquet tomorrow night.

Manager Bill Carrigan, of the Red Sox, is trying to put his home town of Lewiston, Me., on the map. The Brockton team of the New England league is on the market and Bill is urging his fellow townsmen to buy the outfit.

SECOND

Tidal Wave Causes Many More Deaths

Nagasaki, Japan, Jan. 15.—A second tidal wave, caused by renewed activity of the volcano Sakura-Jima, swept the coast of the island of Kiushiu at Kumamoto today, bringing a fresh toll of death in the series of calamities which are overwhelming the Japanese empire.

CYNICAL.

"I always said that political rival of mine would stoop to any falsehood. Now I can prove it."

"How?"

"He sent me a message saying he congratulates me on my election."

TAKING A PHOTOGRAPH.

So Easy Nowadays That It Positively Peevied the Old Timer.

"I'm in an organization where the members are expected to furnish the secretary with photographs of themselves."

"Yes?"

"Well, I hadn't been to a photographer's for twenty years. I hated to go. I remembered the old head clamp, and the twisted spine, and the awkward hands, and the depressed chin, and the silly smile. It seemed to me worse than the dentist's. But I had to go. I walked into the photographer's big room like a Christian martyr, and the operator pointed out a chair, and I sat down, and he said, "That's all." I asked him to repeat it. He did. Then I got out of the chair and went back to my office."

"Well?"

"Well, I don't feel right about it. It didn't seem to me worth while. I don't think the photographer treated me right. It looked to me as if he had a disagreeable job on his hands and wanted to shirk it. He should have fussed over me more. What do I know about posing? Besides, there wasn't time. 'That's all,' he said, and flipped me out of the chair. They didn't snub me that way twenty years ago, no, sir!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Made the Most of His Hats.

When Lord Milner held his first reception at Pretoria the officers and legislators were given to understand that frock coats and tail hats were expected of them. There was only one shop in the place in which silk hats were sold, and this had but four of them. The Transvaal legislators rushed off in a body to buy these four, but the latter, not being mad, saw his opportunity in their extremity. He knew there was no time to get hats from anywhere else, so he resolved not to sell. He offered to let them out on hire at the rate of 10 shillings for ten minutes. His shop was close at hand. Four gentlemen could present themselves before they must silently steal away and hand over their hired finery to another panting quartet. It was done, and the latter still repeats dreamily as he recalls the moment of his life. "It would not have been fair to have sold them, not fair to my customers and not fair to myself."—London Globe.

"The Corsican Bandit."

Only those who have traveled a good deal in Italy can realize the depth of the resentment that is still felt there at the losses the country suffered through the "Corsican Bandit," as Napoleon has been dubbed. The Italians have a saying about the French, "Are the French thieves?" "No, but bona parte a good part of them are." And when a visitor goes to one city after another, sees one building after another that was robbed of its chief treasures by Napoleon, he begins to understand this savage sentiment. It is even stronger in Malta, which island was virtually swept clean of its splendors of medieval and renaissance art by the conqueror. The Maltese loot is all somewhere at the bottom of Alexandria bay, the ship on which Napoleon landed it having foundered there.

Wat Tyler's Rebellion.

Attempts to fix by statute the wages of agricultural laborers in England were largely responsible for the great revolt of 1381, or "Wat Tyler's rebellion." It represented the despairing effort of landowners to get back to the level of wages before the black death came to make labor dear. But the lord of the manor overshot the mark. He wanted the day wage kept down to 4 cents to 6 cents a day. Had he put 6 cents to 8 cents in the schedule there might have been no rebellion.

Badly Expressed.

Mother-in-law—It is so kind of you, Joseph, to take the trouble to drive me home! Son-in-law—Don't mention it! It's no trouble at all. On the contrary, it is the most delightful drive I have had for some time!—London Telegraph.
